Story Writer
Students learn more about stories by writing them.

Write a story that teaches a lesson.
For example, the story “The Little Engine that Could” teaches that if you believe in yourself and try hard you can do great things.

Decide what lesson you want people to learn from your story.
Then plan it.

The Lesson My Story Will Teach: __________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________

Who will be in your story?
_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________

What will happen?
First: _________________________________________________________________________________
Then: _________________________________________________________________________________
Then: _________________________________________________________________________________
Then: _________________________________________________________________________________

How will your story end?
_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________

Write and draw pictures to tell your story.
Tell about the place and draw pictures that show it.
Draw pictures of the characters and write what the characters say.
Draw pictures of important events and tell what happens.
At the end of the story, tell what happens and draw pictures showing how the characters feel about the ending.